1. First Response SLA by Channel

Channel	First Response Target
Live Chat	Under 60 seconds
Call Center	Under 3 minutes average wait time
Email	Within 24 hours
Social Media	Within 4 hours (business hours)

2. Resolution SLA by Ticket Type

Ticket Type	Resolution Time
Order Tracking/Status query	Under 1 hour
Returns/Refunds	2-3 business days processing
Payment Disputes	5-10 business days investigation
Damage Claims	3-5 business days claim
Account Security	Within 24 hours
Seller Disputes	5-7 business days

3. Priority Classification

- P1 — Critical: account security, fraud, or safety issues. Immediate escalation required.
- P2 — High: payment disputes, high-value order issues. Handled within same business day.
- P3 — Standard: general returns, refunds, delivery queries. Handled within stated SLA.
- P4 — Low: general feedback, non-urgent product questions. Best-effort response.

4. Breach Handling

Tickets approaching or exceeding their SLA window are automatically flagged in the case management system and routed to a team lead for review. Repeated SLA breaches for a given issue category trigger a root-cause review by the Customer Experience operations team.

Note: SLA targets may be temporarily adjusted during officially announced high-volume periods (major sale campaigns), with revised targets communicated internally in advance.
